Chinese New Year red envelope · good fortune

Print at 100% (Actual size). Cut on the solid line, fold on the dashed lines, glue the tabs marked glue. Steps on the last page.

Top flap

Chinese New Year red envelope · wishing you prosperity

Print at 100% (Actual size). Cut on the solid line, fold on the dashed lines, glue the tabs marked glue. Steps on the last page.

Top flap

Chinese New Year red envelope · Happy New Year

Print at 100% (Actual size). Cut on the solid line, fold on the dashed lines, glue the tabs marked glue. Steps on the last page.

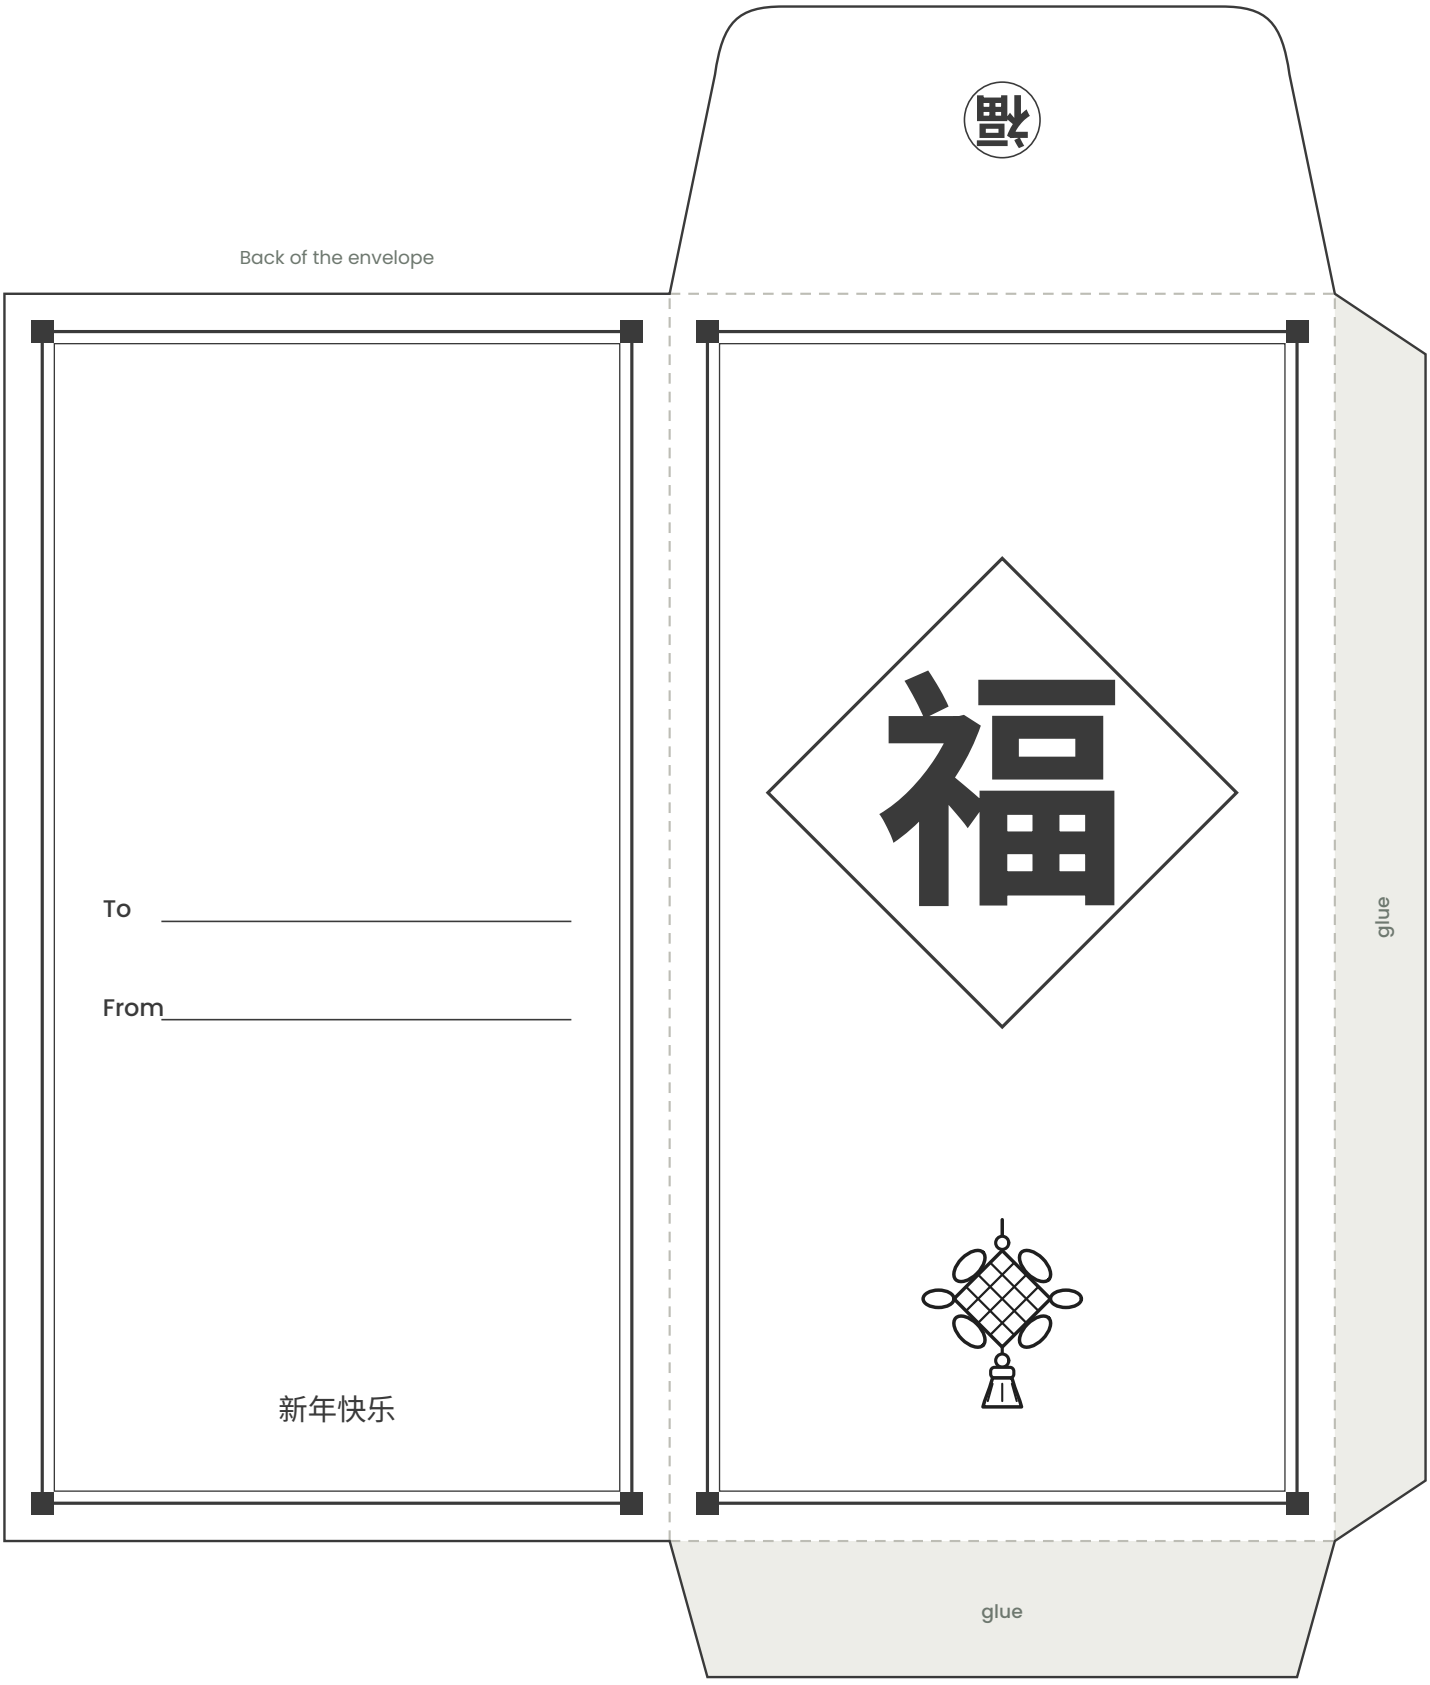

Top flap

Chinese New Year red envelope · to color

Print on red paper or thin card, or color it in. Cut on the solid line and fold on the dashed lines.

Top flap

How to make your red envelope

Chinese New Year red envelopes are called 红包 hóngbāo. Finished size 88 × 165 mm (about 3.5 × 6.5 in).

1. Print at 100% (Actual size), not Fit to page. Plain paper works; thin card makes a sturdier envelope.
2. Cut around the solid outline, including the side tab, the bottom tab and the rounded top flap.
3. Fold the back panel behind the front along the dashed line, then fold the side and bottom tabs in.
4. Glue the side tab and the bottom tab (marked glue) to the inside of the back panel. Let it dry.
5. Fold a banknote once, slip it in, write To and From on the back, and tuck or glue the top flap down.

   The small 福 on the top flap is printed upside down on purpose: it reads the right way up once the flap is folded down.

The words on the envelopes (Chinese)

福	fú	good fortune, blessing, happiness
恭喜发财	gōngxǐ fācái	a New Year greeting wishing you prosperity
新年快乐	xīnnián kuàilè	Happy New Year
红包	hóngbāo	red envelope (the gift of money inside it, too)

Good to know

- The characters are simplified Chinese, as written in mainland China and Singapore. Pinyin spells the Mandarin pronunciation.
- Red envelopes are usually given by parents, grandparents and other married adults to children at Chinese New Year.
- Take a red envelope with both hands and say thank you with a New Year wish. It's polite not to open it in front of the giver.
- Chinese New Year 2027 is Saturday, February 6, the start of the Year of the Goat (羊 yáng).

Want more? The Chinese New Year Activity Pack has 104 pages: zodiac animals, puzzles, crafts, coloring and Chinese character writing, with a lantern, a dragon puppet and design-your-own envelopes.